TRUCE NEGOTIATORS TALK COMPROMISE

EXCHANGE OF PRISONERS IS STILL ISSUE

Munsan, Korea, April 4—(AP)—Truce negotiators hinted today they were working toward a three-way compromise that would clear the way for an armistice in Korea. These developments led observers to predict an agreement may be finally in sight.

1. Secret negotiations on how to exchange prisoners of war were recessed indefinitely to develop "additional avenues" for breaking the long deadlock.

2. Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, top Allied commander, said he thought progress was being made in the truce talks. He hinted that a compromise may be in the offing.

3. Communist newsmen at Panmunjom said Red delegates in effect offered to withdraw their nomination of Soviet Russia as a neutral inspector if the U. N. command would give up its demand for a ban on airfield construction.

Allied negotiators found no such offer in a statement Friday by Chinese Maj. Gen. Hsiao Fang, but in the past Communist correspondence (Turn to Page Eleven)

President's Cleanup Program Blows Up in Greatest Blast Since Gen. MacArthur Firing

Washington, April 4—(AP)—The Truman administration's we-can-clean-up-the-government-ourselves program—as organized two months ago—has blown sky high.

A federal judge from Philadelphia, friendly, 56-year-old James P. McGranery, was called in today to serve as the nation's attorney general and try to pick up the pieces of the anti-corruption drive.

McGranery—if confirmed by the senate, and it looks as if he will be—must come to Washington in the slippery aftermath of the biggest governmental explosion to rock the capital since President Truman's middle-of-the-night dismissal of Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

The known casualties:

J. Howard McGrath, attorney general. McGrath plummeted out of the cabinet of his old friend Harry Truman yesterday with a few tears, a statement that he was paying "the penalty" for doing his duty as he saw it, and a tip to his successor: Bring asbestos pants with you.

Newbold Morris, Republican "cleanup chief" for the administration. McGrath fired Morris with rare abruptness just before going onto the greased skids himself. Morris fed pigeons from a park bench for a while, then averred he was fired because he wouldn't turn his corruption-in-government investigation into a whitewash.

The man at the top, Harry Truman, announced the "resignation" of his 1948 campaign manager, McGrath, calmly at a jam-packed news conference. Truman said McGranery would take over the clean-up-the-government program.

So—

Home to New York goes Morris. And—in his own good time—McGrath was going back to Providence, R. I.

Both men may be coming back soon under different circumstances.

Rep. Chief (D-Ky) said his house judiciary subcommittee, which is investigating the justice department, may call for more testimony from McGrath and may want to hear Morris as well.

Morris announced he would tell "the people" how he planned to clean up the government. He said in a broadcast interview (Mutual) last night he would make details of his program public next week.

He said he had not talked with the president or been invited to since his dismissal.

Truman said and repeated that McGrath resigned voluntarily. But this turned out to be just a polite gesture toward a longtime political ally.

McGranery himself made it plain he's been forced out for disagreeing with the boss—Truman—over the conduct of Morris' cleanup campaign.

Republicans hooted at the whole performance.

McGranery, in Philadelphia, promised "with the help of congress" to wipe out corruption and "restore faith of the American people in the integrity of the government."

WIRE SERVICE RESTORED IN SOME CITIES

New York, April 4—(AP)—Western Union says 39 key cities plus New York City will start sending and receiving messages among themselves today despite strikers' claims that their walkout is almost 100 per cent effective.

Some 31,000 WU workers, members of the AFL Commercial Telegraphers Union (CTU), struck at 12:01 a. m. yesterday in the first nationwide telegraph strike since 1919.

A separate telephone strike set for Monday by 40,000 workers in Michigan, Ohio, and northern California, threatens to further snarl the country's communication systems.

The initial impact of the telegraph walkout, over a wage dispute, cut the usual wire message flood to a trickle. But later in the day the company announced its "key city" message circuit plan because "employees are disregarding the strike call."

The company basically is depending on about 11,000 of its workers not on strike, including supervisory personnel and employees, like those in the New York area, belonging to independent unions.

The major effect of the strike thus far has been to handicap the average person who wants to send a telegram.

Not affected are private leased wires to news services, government and defense centers, and the sending of cables abroad.

Federal Mediator J. L. Mandelbaum met yesterday in Washington with union officials and Signal Corps officials representing the Army, Navy and Air Force. The three services asked for the conference.

MRS. EVALONA GLASENER, NEW SUPERINTENDENT of the Ruth M. Smith Children's Home at Sheffield, is standing, first on left, in the above picture. Next to Mrs. Glasener is Mrs. J. F. Rentz of New Castle, president of the Erie Conference of the Methodist Women's Society of Christian Service, of which organization the Home is a project. Next to Mrs. Rentz is Mrs. Robert Schorman of Warren, treasurer of the Children's Home board. Seated, left to right, are Mrs. Margaret Knapp of Youngsville, secretary of the Board, and Mrs. W. B. Stowe of Corry, president of the Board. Mrs. Glasener and Frank Byrne, retiring as superintendent after eight years' service, were honored by the Board at a luncheon, Thursday. Mr. Byrne was presented with a gift of appreciation.

Spokesman States That Mills Will Start Cooling Furnaces In Anticipation of Stoppage

New York, April 4—(AP)—Formal notice was served on the steel industry today that 700,000 steelworkers will strike Wednesday for higher wages and a union shop.

An industry spokesman said mills would start cooling furnaces immediately.

David G. McDonald, secretary-treasurer of the CIO Steelworkers of America, dropped the strike notices in the mail late last night. He also sent notices to the union's locals.

McDonald said 200 notices were sent to steel companies—several to some companies to cover various contracts and agreements the union had with the managements.

CIO Leader Phillip Murray, who also heads the Steelworkers Union, intended to leave today for Pittsburgh with McDonald and other union officials who negotiated unsuccessfully here with representatives of major steel companies.

The union insisted the industry comply with the wage and other proposals by the Wage Stabilization Board. The industry balked on the ground that the government refused to authorize steel price increases.

JUDGE CLAIMS JUROR AGREED TO A PAYOFF

New York, April 4—(AP)—The foreman of the jury trying gambler Frank Costello for contempt of the senate said today, after she was abruptly excused from service that she had been accused of agreeing to accept a payoff.

"It is ridiculous," declared Mrs. Helen Louise Mason, the jury foreman.

Shortly after court opened today, Federal Judge Sylvester Ryan announced that two jurors had been removed from the jury. He gave no explanation.

But Mrs. Mason, a negro, said later that she was called into the judge's chambers, and that the judge told her he had been informed she "had been approached" and had agreed to accept money. She said neither she nor her husband (Turn to Page Eleven)

DRIVER IS BURNED TO DEATH IN ACCIDENT

Uniontown, April 4—(AP)—Cleo Burdett, 22, of Huntingdon, W. Va., burned to death last night after his huge tractor-trailer burst into flames after it crashed into a stone wall at the foot of a mountain on U. S. Route 40 about six miles east of Uniontown.

The big truck was en route from Johnstown, Pa., to Huntingdon with a load of mine roof bolts.

State police said the truck's brakes apparently failed coming down a long hill. Burdett was trapped in the cab and his charred body was not recovered until several hours after the crash.

Discuss Industry's Aid to Community At Group Meeting

The question of "What Industry Contributes to the Community" was discussed at length last evening at the Foremen's Club Management Development Group meeting at the YMCA with J. B. Proctor, general manager of the DeLuxe Metal Furniture Company as resource and answer man.

Mr. Proctor opened the discussion with a very comprehensive statement regarding the relationship of industry to the community in which it is located, answering eight pointed questions which the group had listed previously on this subject. These questions included industry's obligation to the community, and what industry should expect from the community as well as what part the foremen in industry play in the public relations of that industry. Following his presentation, which was very well received by the group, Mr. Proctor answered many questions from the group in further exploring the subject.

The moderator of the meeting was C. Irwin Hochhaus, plant manager of DeLuxe Metal Furniture Company, who also led the group in the selection of a subject (Turn to Page Eleven)

Supporters of Taft and Eisenhower Are Busy Maneuvering in Iowa and Michigan

By The Associated Press

Supporters of Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio and Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower maneuvered busily today for delegates in two important mid-west Republican state conventions—Iowa and Michigan.

The odds appeared about evenly divided for both presidential aspirants in each state. Backers of other candidates were not so active.

Michigan's GOP convention doesn't open until tomorrow in Detroit but the backstage was abuzz with cautious horse trading.

Iowa Republicans meet in Des Moines today to select 26 delegates to the Chicago national convention. Informal caucuses by counties and congressional districts left the outlook muddled.

But it appeared from preliminary commitments that Taft and Eisenhower were running neck and neck, backers of each claiming four of the eight districts. Each district picks two delegates and 10 will be chosen at large.

The 3,000 Republicans also will be asked to support a proposed Republican national farm plank.

In Michigan Republicans appeared agreed to compromise on dividing the state's 46-vote delegation rather than risk a showdown fight.

The convention will choose 10 delegates-at-large and districts will select the other 36 in pre-convention sessions.

Eisenhower picked up three more national convention delegates in Kansas yesterday. This resulted when Taft backers at a first district GOP convention offered no delegate candidates of their own.

The general's backers pushed their campaign in Illinois for a write-in victory over Taft in next Tuesday's preference primary. The Ohio senator is on the ballot.

The Allegheny National Forest Service and the Pennsylvania Department of Forests and Waters joined in sponsoring a dinner meeting, Thursday night, at the American Legion Home in Sheffield which was attended by fire wardens.

Johns and Verland Ohlson represented the Allegheny National Forest Service while the Department of Forests and Waters was represented by A. H. Vogler, K. W. Check, Otis V. Sage, D. W. Mourer and J. S. Pees.

Others in attendance included James Stark, Jr., Chapman Dam foreman; Paul F. Dell of the Pennsylvania State Police; Sanford Secor, deputy sheriff; George N. Tonight's dinner meeting for wardens in the far western area of Warren county will be at the Presbyterian chapel in Pleasantville at 7 p. m., with the Guild of the church serving the dinner.

Titusville First Methodist Church Destroyed by Fire

Titusville, April 4—(AP)—Fire destroyed the First Methodist church in little more than an hour today.

The Rev. Ralph S. Findley, pastor of the church, which was celebrating its 50th anniversary, estimated the loss at $250,000.

A member of the church board said about $200,000 worth of insurance was carried. Little more than three months ago an additional $75,000 worth of insurance had been taken out.

The fire broke out shortly before midnight. Passersby saw flames shooting through the roof, near the massive chimney atop the native stone structure.

All Titusville firemen were called to the scene but the blaze was hopelessly out of control. However, the firemen succeeded in saving the adjoining parsonage.

The destruction by fire of Titusville's church occurred almost precisely 50 years after ground was broken for the edifice.

The contract for the structure was let in February, 1902, to Myland C. Robinson.

Ground was broken on March 22, 1902, the Saturday before Palm Sunday.

The church was completed in 1903. It was made of native sandstone, quarried from a farm north of the city. It was dedicated on May 31, 1903, with day-long services.

The membership of the church today is 685.

ARGUMENT OVER BILL RESULTS IN MURDER

Johnstown, April 4—(AP)—An argument over a water bill ended with one man being shot to death and another critically injured in a suicide attempt.

Police Chief Frank J. Rehn of New Florence said Nelson Haire, 82, fatally shot Clarence C. Brinker, 62, yesterday. Brinker shared a double house with Haire. Police said the two men frequently quarreled over bills.

Rehn said Haire then shot himself in the stomach, slashed his wrists with a knife and attempted to hang himself with his belt. He is in critical condition in Johnstown Memorial Hospital.

Dean of Warren Dental Profession Plans To Retire After 55 Years of Practice

Dr. D. A. Smith, above, pioneer among dentists of the area, has decided to call it quits after 55 years of practice in this community. He has sold his equipment in the Columbia theater building where his office has been located for the past 14 years, to Dr. N. S. Christenson, of Geneva, O., who will transfer it by truck to that place next week.

Born at Yorkshire, England, February 6, 1886, Dr. Smith was brought to this country when 13 years of age, landing in August, 1891. The family settled in Jamestown where he attended school and sang in the first Boy Choir ever organized in that city. Later he was a member of the New York State National Guard. Dr. Smith came to Warren April 2, 1897, and recalls the first Sunday that he was in town he sang in the Trinity Memorial Episcopal choir, in the basement of the present church, which, at the time, was in process of construction.

After finishing his dental course in college Dr. Smith started practice with a Dr. Pierce, another dentist, he says, in the Warren National Bank building, on what was then called "Front street." In July of that year he opened his own office in the Rogers Block, in Pennsylvania avenue west. From there he moved to an office in Second avenue over what was known as the Smith Shoe store, later moving into quarters over J. A. Johnson's store in Liberty street, acquired afterward by the Woolworth Department store, where he remained until fourteen years ago when he moved to the Columbia theater building.

The emergency truck of the Warren Fire Department was called out at 1:40 this afternoon to check gasoline leaking from a parked automobile in front of the Water Company office. While no fire resulted firemen were making an effort to locate the owner of the machine.

Jaycee Music Committee to Reopen Drive To Increase Membership to 1,000

Because of the unprecedented demand for memberships in the Junior Chamber of Commerce-sponsored Concert Series, the music committee announces it will reopen its 1952-53 campaign and continue until 1,000 members have been enrolled.

Although the auditorium seats only 500 persons, the committee has been assured each artist can be brought to Warren for two successive nights, providing the house has been sold out for both performances.

The Jaycee Concert Series, which has just completed its fourth season, has always entertained a capacity audience and there has always been a waiting list of others who wanted but could not secure memberships.

This year, when an invitation was extended to all residents to place their names on the waiting list, over 200 did so, making it almost imperative that a second night be added. The music committee feels there are at least another 300 music lovers who will join the series and assure the largest Warren audience ever obtained for a concert course in the community.

Next season is the fifth anniversary for the Junior Chamber project and the largest budget possible by selling 1,000 season memberships will help the committee present the finest group of artists in its history to celebrate the occasion.

Within a few days, the committee expects to know the tentative lineup of attractions to be presented next fall and winter.

In the meantime, plans are under way to stage a one-week membership campaign during which time another 300 persons will be sold season tickets. There has never been a single admission sold to any of these concerts, the committee reminds, and this policy will be continued next year.

Dragon Musicians Rate First Chairs

Shortly before noon today, in a telephone call from Edinboro, Director Harry Summers learned that five of 11 Dragon Band members selected to play in the district Band Festival had rated first chairs in their respective sections when tryouts had been completed.

Robert Ebach was chosen first in the trumpet section; Lewis Garber, first solo cornet; James Valone, first chair in the first clarinet section; Helen Way, first alto clarinet section; Marcia Stevens, first in the second flute section.

In addition to these, two rated second chairs, one a third chair spot, and another a third chair stand.

Since qualifiers for the All-State Band must have placed in the first chairs of the district competition, Warren seems very likely to have representation in that festival.

Wonderful Evening of Entertainment Is Furnished by All Junior High Musicians

Dipping down into their younger brackets of public school music students, Directors Howard Andersen, Harry Summers and Carroll Fowler staged another wonderful evening of entertainment in Beatty Junior High School gym last night.

The participants, all junior high pupils, gave every evidence that both quantity and quality will be available to the directors as these youngsters move up into the high school groups of the future.

Their numbers were entered into with an enthusiasm that was encouraging to their leaders and refreshing to the audience which occupied every seat in the bleachers and overflowed, in younger units, to the floor.

Opening the program was the Beatty Treble Choir, which performed under the direction of Mr. Andersen, and was followed by the Beatty Duganore Band. This group, conducted by Mr. Summers, featured a French horn solo by James Eberly, and an exhibition of baton twirling by the Beatty Majorette Club under the direction of Jane Carter.

Continuing, Mr. Andersen offered his large chorus of all-girl voices and was given a happy surprise moment when Andrea Wright, in behalf of the group, presented him with a beautiful tie clasp and cufflinks set, a token of the singers' appreciation for his untiring efforts.

Only other soloist featured during the evening was Allen Bergman, who was accompanied by Becky Munn for a pleasing violin selection midway in the Beatty Orchestra's group of numbers.

Fifth and last on the program was the Beatty Ninth Grade Chorus of mixed voices, performing under Mr. Fowler's direction. Their numbers were all done in a cappella style but one, Shirley Ann Johnson playing the piano accompaniment.

Enthusiastic applause of the listeners was hearkening to all concerned and many remained afterward to offer personal congratulations to directors and pupils.

Bids Are Asked For New School Building

Bids are being asked today by the newly formed Warren Borough School District Authority, which plans construction of the new elementary school in Conewango avenue to be used by the Warren school district.

It is announced that drawings and specifications for the new structure are available for distribution to general contractors, heating and ventilating contractors, plumbing contractors and electrical contractors. Bidding documents for each contract may be obtained from Lawrie and Green, 321 North Front street, Harrisburg, the architects.

Bids for the work will be received by Howard R. Lauffenburger, secretary of the Warren Borough School District Authority, at its offices in Warren High School on or before 4:30 p. m. April 23, at which time and place they will be publicly opened and read.

Original bids for the construction, submitted to the Board of School Directors prior to the forming of the Authority, were rejected because of the high cost. Changes in the plans, which will reduce the cost but in no way lessen the educational advantages to be offered by the new building, were made by the Board before the new bids were asked.

Is Missionary Speaker The Rev. Harold Sechrist, only recently returned from Indo-China, will be one of the principal speakers for the annual missionary convention to be held April 6-9 by the Christian Missionary and Alliance church here. Rev. Sechrist went to Indo-China in 1938 and has completed two terms of service in evangelism, translation, Bible school teaching, and supervision of church, school and publication work. Early in his recent term in Cambodia, he enjoyed unusual opportunities for evangelism with a gospel band whose fruitful minis- try covered old and new territory, but the gradual infiltration of rebel troops so restricted travel that his evangelistic work was contin- ued only by hit and run tactics, with many thrilling narrow es- capes. Teamed with him for the local convention will be the Rev. Mahlon S. Amstutz, who went to Chile in 1945, and has completed one term of service, engaging in evangelism and Bible school work, and minis- tering to Chilean Alliance church- es. For six years, he served as teacher and counselor in the In- stitute Biblico at Temuco, Chile, in the training of young people for evangelistic and church work. He has also traveled extensively throughout Southern Chile, assist- ing the national pastors of the Al- liance's 39 organized churches and more than 100 out-stations.

THE VOICES
The New York Times

The silence is ended. It was the silence which began with the last scratchy note of the last katydid, progressed with the brittle-dry scuffle of leaves in the roadway, depended with the echo of owl hoot and fox bark. At its greatest depth it was a silence in which one could hear the whisper of snowflakes falling. Now it ends in the song of flowing water and the almost tentative voice of the pond frogs.

Those, of course, are obvious voices. So, too, are most of the bird songs which now precede the great chorus. The early robins sing at dawn, even though their song seems to lack the smoothness it will have in May; and the crows peer, as though at the robins; and the jays scream at the crows. Sparrows which have sung little through the cold months seem to have found their old songs again, or at least a few of them. And from the reeds down by the pond comes the half-harsh, half-liquid ka-chee of blackbirds newly arrived from the Southern marshlands.

The subtler voices call for listening, however. They only now begin to manifest themselves, but it is they that will make the very air vibrant in the months ahead. Find an orchard or a meadow and sit down and listen—still more important, feel with all your senses; and you will be aware of them. They are the outriders of the great insect horde—the ants, the first hungry bees, the earliest beetles and the minute flies which tap the opening buds for sustaining sap. They barely hum, now; but back of them is the whole season's insect life and loudness, waiting only a proper warmth to hatch and begin to hum or shrill. The silence is ended, and will not return until the frost bites deep in another autumn.

SAFETY RULES FOR BIKE RIDERS

With spring here and summer just around the corner, bikes are being hauled out of winter storage, polished, oiled, adjusted and readied for the fun—or tragedy ahead, depending upon how well Junior has learned his safety lessons.

A majority of the 20 million two-wheeling enthusiasts will be children, some taking their first outdoor rides on their shiny new Christmas bikes, according to the Bicycle Institute of America.

With this tremendous number of cyclists on the country roads and bike paths during the spring and summer months, the National Safety Council credits Safety Education for a 40 per cent drop in serious bike accidents during the past 10 years. It says that bicycling is a safer sport today than football, basketball and baseball because of the vigorous all-year-round safety campaign waged by thousands of civic organizations and schools in cooperation with the Institute.

Constant hammering on the safety theme has been effective in all grades, according to observers, and it won't do any harm repeating some of the simple rules of the road laid down by the Institute. If followed in the months ahead they can save many hours of anxiety for parents and many lives and limbs of children.

1. Ride single file, close to the shoulder of the road.
2. Obey all traffic signals and observe road courtesy as you would while driving a car.
3. Carry food, swimming suits and all other packages in a basket or carrier on the rear fender so that both hands will always be free for steering.
4. Don't hitch to other vehicles. You've got plenty of time, but only one life.
5. Move off the roadway if you have to make repairs.
6. If you're cycling after dark, make sure your bike is equipped with a headlight and rear reflector.
7. Wear light clothing at night.
8. Walk your bike across busy intersections.

Meetings and dinners for fire wardens held this week at Sheffield, Tidioute and Pleasantville, should remind residents of the area generally of the importance of using utmost caution when entering the woods at this season of the year. While forestry officials, including the wardens, are always on the alert to extinguish fires, the cooperation of everyone is needed to keep the loss at a minimum.

Here And There

Fifty years ago when Easter Sunday fell on March 30th, there were many signs of the forthcoming event as early as March 21, 1902, according to an article in the Evening Times which says: "Already Easter is in the air."

Daisies and buttercups have been springing up in the store show cases, violets have been peeping around and roses have nodded gaily even though the chill winds of March and the snow flakes have been whisking about merrily outside, and now the stores have fairly blossomed out.

The windows are all full of Easter gowns and beautiful Easter hats and for weeks milady's tailor and dressmaker have been busy getting ready the pretty gowns that will come out on Easter day, if the Weather Bureau is considerate.

The shops are filled with pretty Easter trifles. The tiny, pink-cheeked baby dolls in froils, and peeping out from egg shells, queer rabbits in coats and trousers, plain ordinary little rabbits that look all ready to hop, and innumerable other quaint novelties attract the interest of grown-up people and make the tiny folks who see them dance for joy.

Church choirs are busy practicing Easter music and spring brides are planning their trousseaus.

Unless an unexpected and unseasonable stretch of cold weather interferes it looks like the maple syrup season is about at an end. Which reminds about the legend concerning the discovery of the "sweet maple water" made accidentally by an Iroquois squaw. It is said a warrior left his axe in a maple tree overnight, withdrew it in the morning and went hunting. His squaw lacked water for the evening stew and used the sap that flowed from the wound in the tree. She discovered that it sweetened as it boiled down, and was a very tasty dish. A copy of a recent issue of the Catsaraugus Times, loaned us by Jeral Angove, has a "History of Maple Syrup," which says that lacking metal containers, the Indians heated rocks and dropped them into bark, clay or wooden vessels containing the sap, until the water was evaporated. It was a project in which even the Indian men helped with, turning it into a festival to greet the spring. Thus we have the maple syrup and sugar as an original American product along with corn, tobacco, pumpkin, beans and cotton. One Indian tribe is reported to have consumed nine tons of sugar in a year. It takes about 35 gallons of sap to make a gallon of syrup, and an hour of boiling time the way it is done in New York state. A cord of wood should boil twenty gallons of syrup. Sugar is made by boiling the syrup to 236 degrees and then stirring, letting it cool first if a smooth grain is desired."

This 'n That: A cartoon show presenting 14 popular subjects is being arranged for kiddies of the community Easter Monday morning at the Library theater through the sponsorship of a Manager George C. Sarvis, Warner Bros., and the Times-Mirror. . . . And that reminds us kiddies will find on another page of this issue the first of three pictures in the Bugs Bunny Easter Coloring Contest and this year it has been decided that two tickets will be given each of the first ten winners, good for the Cartoon show or any of the Easter programs at the Library. . . . The Red Cross Blood Bank hit an all-time low at Jamestown yesterday securing only 92 pints, the first of a two-day visit, with predictions that only hard work would net 150 pints during the collection. . . . Service clubs will attend three of the Holy Week services at the Evangelical E. U. B. church with the Rotarians being present Monday, Lions on Tuesday and Kiwanians Wednesday, and following previous schedules the clubs will adjourn from the church to the YWCA for luncheon and brief meeting.

Johnston Formula Limits Steel Industry on Price, Wage Raises

By PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON—(NEA)—In one of the early conferences on the steel industry wage increase bargaining, Economic Stabilization Director Roger L. Putnam told the steel company executives, "You are now gambling with your own money."

What he meant was that as the official representative of the U. S. government dealing with such problems, he could not agree in advance that all wage increases would be covered by an Office of Price Stabilization-authorized increase in steel prices.

In other words, if the steel companies granted any substantial wage increases, the money to pay for them would have to come largely out of steel company earnings.

Mr. Putnam's authority for this position goes back to his predecessor in the stabilization job, Eric Johnston. Last April, Mr. Johnston issued what he called "the 85 per cent earnings standard for future increases in price ceilings." It was intended to cover situations such as have now arisen in the steel wage case.

What the Johnston formula was intended to do was define what constituted a "generally fair and equitable price," as required by the Defense Stabilization Act.

It is a tremendously complex thing. But in the simplest possible language the Johnston formula declares that if the average return before taxes on the net worth of any industry is below 85 per cent of the average profit for that industry for the three best years in the pre-Korea, 1946-49 four-year period, then price ceilings would have to be increased to bring the average return up to 85 per cent. On the other hand, if the profit average after cost increases is shown to be above 85 per cent of net worth, then no increase in ceiling would be permitted.

When the Johnston formula was first announced, it was variously construed as a freeze on profits control, or as a disguised means for rolling back profits. Actually it is none of these things.

The Johnston formula has been applied in only a few minor wage increase cases. It has been used to prevent price increases more often than it has been used to grant them. But it has had no wide application and it has not been used in any major industry case.

INDUSTRY figures for the last quarter of 1951 and for the full calendar year 1951 will not be available for several weeks. OPS says these figures may be used as a base. Additional costs arising from any wage increases approved are then added to determine what future operating costs will be. Thus the steel industry will not have to operate below the earnings standard for any period of time before price relief could be applied for, if any such increase is justified under the Johnston formula.

"Net worth," as used in the Johnston formula, is defined by OPS as capital stock, surplus and surplus reserves. But the steel companies define the term "profits before taxes" as meaningless, since taxes are a definite part of operating costs.

All these indefinite factors make impossible any precise forecast on how the Johnston formula will fit the steel wage case. The best example that can be given on how it will work is hypothetical: Suppose the steel companies' profits before taxes were 13 per cent of net worth in 1947, 15 per cent in 1948 and 14 per cent in 1949. The three-year average would be 14 per cent. Eighty-five per cent of that would be approximately 12 per cent. If the agreed wage boost did not cut steel industry profits below 12 per cent, no price increase could be approved.

The puzzle would then be to find some other formula that would satisfy the unions, prevent a strike, keep the steel companies prosperous and still not raise prices too much.

"Let's ask the bank!"

How often do you have "money problems"? Ever wish there were someone around, capable and willing, to help you figure things out? There is someone—your banker. Looking after your "financial health" is a banker's job. Bankers spend years developing a knowledge of money matters...but, like doctors, can't help unless you report what's on your mind. Eliminary Plans for Baccalaureate

Sugar Grove, April 3—With Mrs. Stohberg presiding at the baccalaureate service of Sugar Grove, the board of education, members heard the report of the Gamble Building Corporation that improvements made to the school building in the past 18 months have an estimated cost of $5,500. Two additional classrooms and an office were provided through the changes made. Principal Everett Landin announced preliminary plans for the baccalaureate service on May 25. Commencement exercises on May 27. Sports and the school's entire athletic program occupied considerable time at the meeting, with announcement that a meeting will be held next Tuesday evening, by executive committee and physical education teachers, for consideration of possible improvements in the gymnasium. Coach Ed Bauer reported next season's schedule would include eight football games and 20 basketball games, with a short schedule of basketball at the end of the regular season. Players will be transported to games by bus next year, instead of in private cars. Use of the school auditorium is granted the American Legion, the Volunteer Fire Company, the Girl Scouts and the Farm Supply for coming activities of the next few weeks.

By HAL BOYLE
Wilmington, N. C.—P—Any excuse for throwing a party is a good one. But they have a particularly fine excuse for an annual community-wide party here to honor a flower. The flower is the azalea. It is as symbolic to the people of historic Cape Fear as the magnolia is to the deeper south. "The azalea is Robert E. Lee with petals," said one old resident, summing up the feelings Tarheels have for these bushes which turn the countryside into a rainbow of bloom. Right now old Wilmington, where Lord Cornwallis once had his headquarters, George Washington danced, and the father of Woodrow Wilson preached, is flooded with thousands of visitors who have come to pay homage to a flower. There are a lot of other side attractions during the unique four-day festival. They call out the Army, the Navy and the Marines to march in parades, they dance in the streets at night, they fly in a Hollywood actress and crown her queen, they hold folk music concerts and a $10,000 golf tournament. But the real show is 1,000,000 or more azalea plants just reaching peak beauty. That is what 100,000 nature lovers really come to see, and it is a tremendous demonstration of the pride Carolinians have in their land, a mystic kinship with the soil built up through nearly 300 years. Nobody appreciates his home earth more—or brags about it less—than a Tarheel. He will permit a stranger to admire it, but he doesn't care. It is enough for him that he himself has it to enjoy, as his grandpappy did before him. The three great azalea meadows around Wilmington are Greenfield Lake, one of America's most lovely municipal parks, and showplaces—Airlie Gardens and famous old Orton Plantation. All are orchards of color now, studded with hundreds of varieties of azaleas. As if the ground had erupted in palettes of paint—rich red, pink, white, lavender, and orange. Dominating the 155 acres of Airlie Gardens is a 39-room mansion built by Pembroke Jones, a 19th century rice magnate and friend of banker J. P. Morgan. It contains a staircase from Sir Walter Raleigh's home in England. W. Albert Corbett, an industrialist, bought the estate for a home in 1947, but the gardens are open to the public. It costs more than $25,000 a year to keep them flowering. Rising from the midst of a carpet of riotous azaleas is one of the finest trees in the nation, a towering wide spreading live oak draped with Spanish moss. It is a tree that looks like Father Time. Visitors come and stand under it in silence for a long time, looking almost reverently up at its tremendous wrinkled arms. "It makes you feel like you are in a cathedral," one said. A lady who lives here says her husband is in love with the old oak, but she isn't jealous of it at all. "They say oaks like it grow for 300 years, live for 300 years, and die for 300 years," she remarked. "The Airlie oak is in the middle 300 years. I'm glad of it because I'd hate to see my husband outlive that tree. It would be the death of him."

A BOY AT CALVARY

By Jay Heavilin and Walt Scott

"Art thou the King of the Jews?" asked Pilate, trying to avoid the quiet, searching eyes of the prisoner before him. "Thou sayest," replied Jesus calmly.

Like angry hornets, the priests flew at Jesus: Had He not claimed to be the Son of God? Had He not driven the money changers out of the temple? Had He not performed miracles on the Sabbath? To Sakron's amazement, Jesus remained silent.

Another prisoner was then brought before Pilate. "Barabbas," murmured the crowd. Sakron's eyes grew big. This was the man he had traveled more than 30 miles to see. Would Pilate observe the Passover custom of freeing one prisoner?

Sakron held his breath as Pilate raised his hand for silence. "Whom shall I release unto you?" Barabbas, or Jesus which is called Christ? shouted Pilate. "Barabbas! Barabbas!" screamed the mob.

"What shall I do then with Jesus?" asked Pilate. "Crucify him!" thundered the crowd. Pilate stiffened. Washing his hands in a basin, he murmured, "I am innocent of the blood of this just person."

His bonds severed, Barabbas stepped cockily into the embrace of his followers. Sakron's friends fought their way through the throng to be at their hero's side.

Sakron did not join them. He was curious to see if Jesus could maintain His composure. His expression of beatific peace, during the cruel scourging, or flogging, that always preceded crucifixions.

PENNSYLVANIA FARM ROUND-UP

BY JOHN DEITRICK
Harrisburg—(P)—A new half-million dollar federal loan fund is now available for use by needy Pennsylvania farmers. The fund makes available home loans up to $12,000 for a 40-year period at four per cent interest. Loans for equipment and materials up to $10,000 may be had for seven years at five per cent interest. The loan fund comes from money made available by the federal government in 1935 to aid distressed farmers in the various states. The $514,000 allocated to Pennsylvania has been held up for over 15 years because of change in federal aid laws. In 1946 congress established the farmers home administration with authority to contract with states due monies from the 1935 grants. The 1951 legislature passed a law enabling the state to receive the $514,000 earmarked for use in Pennsylvania.

Mrs. Eleanor G. Evans, state assistance secretary, who negotiated with the federal government for release of the Pennsylvania grant said issuance of the loans will be handled through the FHA's Pennsylvania branch. Carson F. Metz, state director of the FHA, has been named custodian of the fund. All requests for loans should be addressed to Metz, P. O. Box 311, Harrisburg. Mrs. Evans said the federal loans during the depression years helped many Pennsylvania farmers. Over 1,000 who had to go on relief during that period received loans to purchase seeds, feed, fertilizer, livestock and equipment in order to get a new start and become self-supporting, Mrs. Evans said. She added that "it is just as essential today that farm families, especially veterans, be given the opportunity to help themselves." The State Agriculture Department reports that saleable stocks of Pennsylvania potatoes are nearly exhausted. Shipments of new potatoes from the south are now beginning to supply the market. Only 1,850,000 bushels of potatoes were being held for sale by growers and local dealers in Pennsylvania on March 1. This was less than half the amount on hand for the period a year ago. Pennsylvania's 1951 potato crop of 16,215,000 bushels was the smallest ever recorded for the state. Poor growing conditions and small averages was responsible for the drop. One gram of pure silver can be drawn into a wire more than a mile long. All children must be accompanied by parents. The 30-minute picture, which is sponsored by Pacific Garden Mission, uses a hard-hitting documentary technique to show the mission's work among the outcasts of Chicago's South State street.

His plans for the oc- casion included costuming and make-up of the choristers, old and new, which added much to the enjoyment of their presentation.

NAME _____ AGE _____
RESS _____

Here is something that means real fun for all youngsters in Warren—a BUGS BUNNY EASTER COLORING AND JINGLE CONTEST that gives every boy and girl up to 12 years old a chance to color three sketches with crayons or paints and write a last line for three jingles. And best of all, every boy and girl has an equal opportunity to win a prize! Today we present the first of the BUGS BUNNY sketches, with Bugs playing the part of the Easter bunny. All you have to do is color this sketch, add a last line to the jingle that appears with it, and write your name, age and address in the space provided.

Then watch for the next two sketches and jingles, and get busy with your coloring and jingle-line writing again.

When you have all three sketches completed, mail them together in one batch to the BUGS BUNNY CONTEST EDITOR of Times-Mirror. DON'T send the sketches in separately, and be sure to sign your name, age and address on each one. It's all very simple, youngsters, if you follow the rules which appear below.

And now, of course, you'll be interested in the list of prizes to be awarded for the best coloring jobs and the best jingle lines. Here they are:

This contest is staged as an Easter feature by the Times-Mirror in cooperation with Manager George C. Sarvis, of the Warner Bros. Library theatre, who offers the following list of tickets as prizes:

Members of First Methodist church extend a cordial welcome to friends to join with them Palm Sunday morning in the worship period which will mark the close of their week-long observance of the 25th anniversary of the dedication of the beautiful church which stands at the corner of Market street and Second avenue.

The congregation is privileged and happy to have as guest speaker for this very important occasion their resident bishop of the Pittsburgh Area, Lloyd C. Wicke, DD, LLD, who will be accompanied to Warren by Mrs. Wicke.

Dr. Arthur Colley, pastor, will preside and Byron Swanson will be in charge of the special musical arrangements.

The choir will sing two anthems, "Ride On! Ride On in Majesty" by Farmer and "All Glory, Laud and Honor" by Teschner. Miss Norma Haight will sing the familiar Faure solo, "The Palms."

Other services of the day are the church school session at 10:00 a. m. and a service of baptism for infants and children to be conducted by Dr. Colley at 4:00 p. m.

Bishop Wicke has been serving in his present post for the past four years, having been elected to the episcopacy from Mt. Lebanon Methodist church in Pittsburgh in 1948. A native of that city, he had served the Mt. Lebanon parish for a period of seven years prior to his advancement and before that was a district superintendent in New Jersey.

seoul, Korea, April 4—(AP)—Communist mortar and machine gun fire pinned down an Allied patrol for four hours early today near the punchbowl in eastern Korea.

The raiders broke out finally under a screen of smoke and bursting shells laid down by United Nations artillery.

This was the biggest action reported today along the 153 mile front by the U. S. Eighth Army. Three very small Red probes were forced back between the punchbowl and the east coast.

The ex-cousin of the two jurors, coupled with the reported illness of a third one, made it doubtful whether trial could continue.

The jury was to begin considering a verdict today. It was the second trial of Costello on charges of contempt of the U. S. Senate crime committee last year.

The first one ended with the jury deadlocked 11 to 1 for conviction.

Robbing Piggy Bank Difficult Operation

London, April 4—(AP)—A doctor who kept his name secret described in the medical magazine Lancet today how to perform a certain emergency operation:

"The operator should lie in the Trendelenburg position. An E. N. T. surgeon's headlamp is an advantage. The blade of a kitchen knife is most generally suitable. This is maneuvered after the fashion of a leucotomy. Knife. The impulse to reach for a lithotrite or eraniolator must be sternly resisted. A small magnet can be safely used to remove small ferruginous bodies which so often precipitate an acute retention."

The operation: "Sneaking coins out of the kids' piggy bank."

for the next meeting, and composing of questions on that subject. This next meeting will be held on April 17th, with Paul E. Ristau, chief inspector, Struthers-Wells Corp., as moderator, and the subject for discussion will be "The Relations Between Quality Control and Production Schedules."

PRINCIPALS' MEETING

Instructions in the fundamental principles of daily citizenship ceremonies in public schools as mandated by Act 497, approved by the governor of Pennsylvania January 8, 1952, was one of the topics discussed at the monthly meeting of principals, attended by Dr. Carl E. Whipple, superintendent, and Gerald Newton, director of instruction and curriculum. A report was made that the savings for March from students of the schools, excluding senior high, was $2,477.83. Other business discussed were dates for final examinations, next year's Bundle Day, and inspection of schools by Dr. Whipple and Jerome Paul, maintenance manager of buildings.

JAIL SENTENCES

D. H. Burnett began serving a 60-day jail sentence today after he appeared before Judge Allison D. Wade on a contempt of court charge in not complying with a support order. The same charge was faced by Harry Lewis Wilkins, who was sentenced to three months in jail. Cecil L. Heeter of Sheffield, indicted on a charge of leaving the scene of an accident, was assessed a fine of $100, costs of prosecution, and a 30-day jail sentence was suspended. Murder is Forgetful

BY WILLIAM G. BOGART

Chapter 30

IT WAS still dark when he awoke again. The night was overcast and quiet. Johnny could only vaguely make out the long rectangle of the window openings—and he had no idea how long he had slept.

The sound that had awakened him was the dog's whimpering. Johnny Saxon slid quickly out of bed. The great Dane was over near the door. He could hear him, the animal's tail slapping against a chair beside the door. Strange, the dog did not bark. He was just standing there, as though knowing who was beyond the door, making the friendly whimpering sounds in his throat.

The quick urgent tap on the door brought Johnny fully awake. Johnny held the restless dog and called out quietly, "Who is it?"

"It's Kay. Hurry! Open the door! Urgency is in her voice."

"Just minute."

He flicked the wall switch, was blinded for a moment by the overhead light. He saw Moe's dressing gown lying across the foot of one bed and quickly put it on. It almost went twice around his tall, slender figure. Moe sat up with a start, his round, sleepy eyes blinking.

"For heaven's sake pull the sheet over you," Johnny ordered, then flung open the door.

Kay rushed into the room. She wore a white robe around her slim, youthful figure. Her sea-green eyes were startled and worried.

"Johnny... mother's gone!" she gasped. She was hardly aware of the massive great Dane nuzzling against her leg.

"Gone?" Johnny frowned.

"She's not in her room. A few moments ago I thought I heard something, and got up. I went in to see if she was all right. And... she was gone!"

"Maybe she went downstairs for something," Moe suggested. He had been sitting up in bed, a sheet around his figure. Listening.

But Kay quickly shook her head. "I think she's gone out. The big animal was straining at the narrow, round leather choke collar. The collar kept him from yanking Johnny off his feet."

Chapter 31

JOHNNY stopped. "Couldn't be going where?"

Kay motioned along the wood's trail. "This path leads to the gun club. But no one's used it in several years. It's closed."

"What gun club, Kay?"

"Father's." She explained. "Everyone used to go down there... neighbors and all. One Sunday a man got shot, so father closed the place. It was never used again."

"But it's still owned by your family?"

"Yes. It's located on a far corner of the estate, not far from here now." She shook her head. "It's the only place this path leads to. I'm not reasonable... mother... at this ungodly hour..."

He gave the dog lead again and they hurried along behind him. He wondered why no one had thought to mention the gun club. But if the place had been closed for several years, probably no one had even thought to mention it. Besides, such a place was not unusual on this kind of an estate.

The path followed close to the edge of a high bluff that bordered the water on a narrow strip of beach. Edge of the steep embankment was only a few feet away from them.

"Careful," he warned the girl. "I know every step of the way." Kay said—"even though I haven't been down here in ages." Her voice was fearful again. "But if mother ever wandered off this path..."

"Stop worrying, child."

Suddenly, the dog started to bark. It was choked off and died in his throat as Johnny Saxon pulled in on the lead. The animal continued to strain mightily at the collar, however, even though the pressure on his throat was terrific.

"He sees something!" Kay cried softly, gripping Johnny's arm, her fingers tense.

The detective had snapped off the light. His eyes were accustomed to the night now; high up here on the open bluff it was not difficult to see. Ahead the path followed an outward curve of the bluff, and it was along this sweep of land that Johnny's gaze was traveling.

Where the bluff curved seaward, ahead, he thought he saw a figure moving. His eyes held steadily on the object. It was something white... "It's mother!" Kay, too, had seen. "It's mother!"

Then she had pushed past him and was running, calling in the night. "Mother! Wait!"

The dog almost yanked Johnny Saxon off his feet as he followed the girl. "Take it easy, pal!" Johnny said, running.

It was perhaps a hundred yards to where the woman's figure was walking ahead. Kay was first to reach her. She flung her arms around the slim, tall figure and gasped, "Mother! What is it?"

What's wrong?"

The dog ceased, made snorting sounds as he bobbed his head up and down and tried to jump up to caress Irene Smith. He could have easily knocked her off her feet.

Johnny held him back, watching Kay—watching this tall, graceful, beautiful woman who he had the answer to a strange mystery.

She had stopped, turned part way around, was looking down into the girl's pretty face. There was a serenity about Irene Smith, a calmness in her eyes that indicated she was hardly aware of where she was or the time of night, or what was happening.

THE woman merely stared at the girl.

"What do you want?" she asked quietly.

"Mother, don't you remember?" Kay stammered, a sob catching in her throat.

"For a moment," Kay stammered. "I thought... she knew me." She made a gesture with her hand. "Perhaps you..."

Johnny stepped up to them. He had the flashlight turned on again and the woman first saw the dog. She reached down and carefully touched his head. The wavy answers person might pat an animal that is somewhat strange.

Then she saw Johnny's features revealed in the flashlight glow.

Her whole manner changed. Instantly she seemed more vitally alive. Her slim fingers reached out and touched his hand. Her eyes lighted.

"Bart," she said, "I was coming to see you!"

Johnny's brows lifted. He caught Kay's expression, that helpless look as she slowly shook her head in puzzlement.

He smiled and said lightly, "I thought you'd come—Marie." He was conscious of the touch of her cool fingers. That's why he started to meet you.

"You didn't have to do that, my darling," the woman said. "I would have been there anyway. Today is such an important one, remember? You've... decided?"

He wondered what in the Lord's name she was supposed to have decided. Watching sure."

Relief was mirrored in her beautiful gray eyes. "Bart," she said softly, "I knew you would."

The dog, seeking attention, was ceasing the woman's hand. She looked at him in a manner changed slightly. She kept looking at the dog and when Johnny said, "But why did you come here? She did not seem to hear him.

She looked up from the dog and met his searching gaze. And his expectations were shattered. Irene Smith stared at him out of eyes that showed no recognition whatsoever. He might just as well have been a guy mooching a dime for a cup of coffee!

Her straight shoulders drew back and she gave a peculiar sort of sigh. Her gray eyes no longer were questing on him. Her hand dropped away. She asked, as though confused, "Where am I? What's happened?"

Johnny sank back on his heels. Kay could not stay the sob that escaped her lips. She looked at Johnny Saxon and her eyes were damp with tears. She made a hopeless, weary gesture.

Johnny tried questioning the woman. It was useless. Her answers were vague, disconnected. "I think," he said to Kay, "we'd better talk to her home."

K PICKS GIANTS AND INDIANS TO WIN THE BIG LEAGUE PENNANTS IN 1952

Parents' Interest In Hot Stove League Baseball Is Challenged

Parents of the hundreds of boys who play Hot Stove League baseball, as well as other folk who have declared themselves interested in the sport in the various districts, are soon asked to attend a meeting called for the purpose of assuring a strong background for activities in 1952.

From the standpoint of the hard-working little group directly behind the Hot Stove League, headed by President Charles Sante, this meeting will be far more important than would appear on the surface. It comes within the category of being a psychological experiment. The workers are determined to find out just how interested the boys' parents are in supporting Hot Stove League, not only from a financial standpoint but regarding their willingness and intent to stand behind their sons and see that they get from Hot Stove League baseball all the benefits which it can provide.

No one doubts the interest of the boys themselves! It would be difficult to find another town in all the United States where Great American Sport is so firmly entrenched in the minds of its youth.

How many Warren county residents realize that between 3 and 800 boys will take part in this year's Hot Stove League baseball activity in Warren? And this does not include the Sun-League, which is an institution itself.

How many know that there will be between 48 and 50 teams taking part? Or that 13 baseball diamonds will be in use in Warren, Clarendon, Youngsville, North Warren and Elder Park?

The figures, which indicate the interest shown by the boys themselves, are almost stupendous.

The workers behind the Hot Stove League are entitled to a moral and financial support of the community. The aid of a parent's should be forthcoming without any solicitation at all. The sincerity and enthusiasm shown at Tuesday night's first '52 meeting in Trinity Memorial Parish House should have been evident and heard by each parent. Just a mere sketch of the work entailed in setting up and operating this big league would amaze you.

The league is divided into districts by Warren boroughs and outlying towns. A chairman is named for each district to see to registration, fields, managers, rules and regulations, and distribution of equipment. Some of the districts, particularly in Warren, have been lax in helping their teams. Parents have not shown a desire to help, and the work has fallen back to the few who have already been burdened with most of the responsibility in the first place; many have had to act in two or three capacities.

There must be a change in the attitude of the parents in these districts where interest has been hardly lukewarm, if their boys are to benefit from Hot Stove League participation. They can help in so many ways: As umpires, as team handlers, in giving aid toward keeping the diamonds in shape, transportation of players, in buying the dollar membership cards, and as members of a committee to raise funds. It cost about $5,000 to operate the Hot Stove League last year.

The load of responsibility carried by President Musente the last few years prompted him to tell the organization, Tuesday night, that he desired to withdraw as president. Somewhat stunned at first, the men present demonstrated their interest by declaring they would give him good committee support if he would continue, and the committees are now being formed.

But one thing remains certain: Hot Stove Baseball cannot successfully reach a boy who resides in a League district where the parents show a lack of interest. There is no doubt as to the benefits derived, and it is up to the parents to show appreciation of the work done by others in helping their sons to fully enjoy the sport and part of the American Way of Life, and get behind Warren's Hot Stove League with the enthusiasm which such a worthy project so well deserves.

Top Personalities In Big Car Races

Reading, April 4—Just about every top personality in auto racing, including Indianapolis winner Wallace, will be on hand for opening of the AAA Eastern car race season at the Reading Fairground, Sunday, April 6.

Wallard, who still feels the effects of his disastrous accident on Reading track last June, will assist as honorary starter, and give an address of welcome to the fans who turn out for the big season.

The 1952 curtain raiser has all the earmarks of an old-fashioned "knock 'em down, drag 'em out" affair. Not only are all the top drivers primed for action, but a delegation of topnotchers from the Midwest and Pacific coast will also be gunning for their season's first win.

Pirates Ask Waivers On Werle, Manager Lays Down the Law

Hattiesburg, Miss., April 4—(AP)—Manager Bill Meyer let his Pittsburgh Pirates know today they will have to obey training rules if they want to stay with the Bucs.

Meyer, who fined southpaw pitcher Bill Werle $500 and suspended him indefinitely for an unspecified violation of the rules yesterday, read the riot act before the Bucs got ready to take the field against the Chicago Cubs.

"This is only the beginning. I will not tolerate any more violations of training rules. I'm through covering up. We've got too many kids on our team and I'm going to protect them," he declared.

Meyer, who is being backed to the limit by General Manager Branch Rickey, said waivers will be asked on Werle. The 30-year-old hurler, who cost the Bucs a reported $50,000.00 four years ago, was sent to Pittsburgh to await further instructions.

Werle didn't say what training rule he is accused of breaking. However, he intimated other Bucs players may have broken some of the rules.

Tri-State Tourney To Get Under Way Next Wednesday

Pittsburgh, April 4—First entries for the Tri-State Olympic Tryouts at the Pitt Field House on Wednesday and Thursday, April 9-10, indicate that a wide area will be represented.

Thus far six states, Pennsylvania, Illinois, Ohio, New Jersey, Maryland, and Michigan are represented.

Finalists in the Tri-State Tourney, proceeds from which go to the Olympic Fund to be used in sending the United States Olympic team to Helsinki this summer, are eligible for the final tryouts at Iowa State late this spring.

Eldred Kraemer, Pitt heavy-weight from Clear Lake, Minnesota, who is ineligible to represent the Panthers due to scholastic probation, will compete unattached.

Homer Barr, Warren High wrestling coach and former eastern intercollegiate champion from Penn State, will represent Warren in the heavyweight division.

Carl Abel of Medina, Ohio, former National AAU champion is another heavyweight contender, along with Dick Read of Illinois, a heavyweight, who will enter unattached from his home in New Jersey.

Larry Fornicola of Bellefonte, Penn State's top 137 pounder for the first semester, will compete unattached.

STANKEY SPIKED

Savannah, Ga., April 4—(AP)—Eddie Stanky, the St. Louis Cardinals' playing manager, had a first yesterday—he got his first spike wound in a Redbird uniform.

It came as he put out the Philadelphia Phils Jack Mayo on a forced play at second. Stanky reported it was "just a nick."

Wilmer (Vinegar Bend) Mizell was scheduled to hurl for the Cards against the Phils today.

Boston Braves, Detroit Tigers Named Darkhorses Because Of Their Pitching Potentials

By FRANK ECK
AP Newsfeatures Sports Editor

New York, April 4—Baseball will begin the 1952 pennant races in a very unsettled state. After two months of spring training at Florida, California and Arizona camps not one of the 16 major league managers appears satisfied with the team he will field. That means trades, and you can look for a lot of them from now until mid-June.

Of the 10 managers the writer saw in Florida each seemed intent on talking about one or more players on another team.

The recall by the services of some of the game's top names will leave gaping holes in several clubs.

The writer likes the Cleveland Indians and the New York Giants as the pennant winners in the American and National Leagues. The New York Yankees, gunning for their fourth straight flag and World Series, will be the Indians only contender. The Giants must beat out the Brooklyn Dodgers again.

The darkhorse teams figure to be the Boston Braves and the Detroit Tigers because of their pitching potential.

The New York Giants have the best pitching staff in their league, if not in both leagues. Leo Durocher has five starters of World Series experience in Sal Maglie, Larry Jansen, Jim Hearn, Max Lanier and Dave Koslo. This quintet won 54 games in 1951. Lanier, obtained from the St. Louis Cardinals, won 11 games at 36 and figures to add southpaw strength to the Giant staff.

Manager Al Lopez of the Cleveland Indians has the best four-man pitching staff in the American League and if the bats of Luke Easter, Al Rosen and Larry Doby begin clicking there will be no stopping the Indians. His big four consists of Bob Feller, Ed Garcia, Bob Lemon and Early Wynn. This quartet racked up 79 victories last season yet finished five games back of the Yankees.

CLARENDON

Clarendon, Apr. 3.—The regular meeting of the Philatelic Bible class was held Tuesday evening in the Methodist church parlors, with ten members present. Devotions were conducted by Martha Sleeman, who took her scripture reading from St. John, after which all joined in singing "I Need Thee Every Hour", followed by prayer and the hymn, "Near The Cross". The business session was opened by the president, reports were handed in by the various officers, and the following were appointed on the nominating committee to select new officers for the coming year: Martha Schneider, Mary Campbell and Evelyn Meley. In the absence of the regular entertaining committee, Grace McBride, Sadie Smith and Evelyn Meley provided readings and quiz games, after which a dainty lunch was served by the hostesses, Alice Nelson and Evelyn Meley. The next meeting will take place May 6th, with Edith Henderson and Mabel Ferguson as hostesses.
